The Ann Katz Festival of Books and Arts, celebrating it's 15th anniversary, showcases a large variety of authors and films as well as visual and performing artists that are appealing to all ages and interests.

This literary and arts event is the largest of its kind in central Indiana. Your support will help offset the many costs of bringing highly-esteemed authors, fine artists, films and live performances to Indianapolis and continuing to offer this festival to the entire community.

> "This award-winning event, now in its 15th year, is presented with support from an endowment established by Irwin Katz in memory of his wife, Ann. Her love for books is something that can be shared with the entire community through this treasure of a festival."
